Beginning of coding began with the implementation of a large text area, for writing/typing, and a button (for choosing font type). There were difficulties activating the buttons to do their assigned task, choosing font size and type. Using Swing tutorials provided by the Swing page/site, these issues were resolved accordingly. Resolving the button malfunctions was done prominently independently by my partner. Independently I created action listeners, as well as a repository.